

Annadanam is not charity. It is not an obligation. It asks for nothing in return. The hand that gives is never left empty, because generosity has a way of filling spaces we didn't even know were hollow. When you feed someone, you are not just giving them food—you are offering them a moment of grace, a reminder that in this vast and complicated world, kindness still exists.

Among
all gifts,
the gift of food is supreme
